Local economic analysts are challenging all of us to get out of a recession mindset. That sums up one of the pillars of our three-year plan adopted in September 2014: reinvesting in content and capacity to catch up from years of necessary prudence, including a next-generation upgrade to our online presence. We also invested in people to account for the new normal of multiplatform journalism, so that we can deliver news and cultural content wherever you find us—on air, online and in print. Nevada Public Radio is pacing competitively with the resources devoted to locally originated content on air and online, compared to larger market stations in Salt Lake City, Charlotte and San Antonio.

Those metrics only capture part of the story. Earning your trust and your investments is vital. I cherish every contributor’s name in the following pages as a partner in our endeavor. Thank you.

This past year we also turned our attention to increasing the capacity of the Donald W. Reynolds building, which has been our home since 1998 on the CSN campus, when Las Vegas was the nation’s fastest growing city and just 15 staffers moved into The Donald W. Reynolds broadcast center. It was designed to last more than 25 years, but our aspirations have always been to exceed expectations. There’s a full history online at knpr.org/about-us/our-history and highlights are evident through the following pages.

Nevada Public Radio doesn’t stay still. Everyone here is committed to growing, improving and deepening our service to our community. It is an honor to play this role in the lives of everyone who seeks out content on air, in print or online.

Our milestones of success are the ones by which a community can measure its health: Vibrant, locally owned independent media, news content that addresses the issues important to our shared home, inspires civic engagement and ignites compassion. Paired with enriching cultural content that delights and entertains. That’s our post-recession mindset, and you make it all possible. Thank you.

Cynthia Alexander
Board of Directors Chair

When Nevada Public Radio was incorporated 40 years ago in December of 1975, the board’s role was singular: launch KNPR FM, the first NPR affiliate in Nevada. That effort culminated in 1980, bringing NPR news and classical music to Southern Nevada. In subsequent years, a volunteer board has partnered with management — one with remarkable continuity beginning with founder Lamar Marchese — to constantly seek ways to expand independent public media in the region. As an independent licensee, we can focus solely on the mission of public media and the needs of our audiences.

That means every decision is made with you in mind: to enhance your access to high-quality independent media and cultural content wherever you choose to find us. Stewardship of the resources entrusted to us, including the privileged operation of FCC regulated public airwaves, is driven by one agenda: serving our community.

The nationwide network of 260+ NPR member organizations and the multitudes of stations they represent serve the U.S. with unmatched local, national and international journalism. I note that Nevada Public Radio management continues to serve in national leadership roles to move our endeavor forward and position us as a continually thriving public media organization.

The Nevada Public Radio Board has always been forward-looking, from additional frequency acquisition in the ‘90s or incubating the city regional magazine Desert Companion that is now a distinct editorial voice in the region. We have radio in our name and history, and our Board has always kept our community role front and center; but without meaningful content there is no reason for our audiences to engage as listeners or supporters, of course. As media changes, we emerge as a convener, a candid friend to the community.

The following pages honor the individuals who have invested in this effort in the year ending September 30, 2015. On behalf of the Board of Directors, I thank you sincerely. You are joined by the corporations, businesses and foundations who share your commitment. We are proud to recognize you and look forward to our next decade of serving you.
Nevada Public Radio is NPR in Las Vegas. A growing audience relies on our broadcast, print and digital distribution channels for a unique mix of local, national, and international news, entertainment and cultural content.

OUR MISSION Nevada Public Radio will enhance the quality of life and foster civic engagement by informing, educating and inspiring our growing audiences.

OUR VISION Nevada Public Radio will be recognized as the leading independent source of information and cultural expression, and a catalyst for civic engagement.

Members are at the heart of public radio. Nevada Public Radio’s activities are supported by this base of annual individual giving, along with revenue from broadcast and online sponsorship, as well as print advertising. NVPR is the recipient of private foundation donations and other grant revenue, including the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. Nevada Public Radio (NVPR) was established in 1975 as an independent, not-for-profit, public benefit corporation. NVPR signed on the air in 1980 with one station serving the Las Vegas area as Nevada’s first National Public Radio (NPR®) affiliate station. For more than three decades, NVPR has remained true to its mission to enhance the quality of life and foster civic engagement by informing, educating and inspiring a growing audience through public media — including content on air, in print and online. NVPR’s broadcast network includes two FM stations serving the Las Vegas metropolitan area — News 88.9 KNPR and Classical KCNV 89.7. Combined with five associate stations, 10 translator stations and associated HD digital channels, NVPR serves a geographical area of more than 66,000 square miles, including parts of California, Utah and Arizona. NVPR is the publisher of the award-winning Desert Companion monthly magazine and the producer of KNPR’s State of Nevada.
Nevada Public Radio is your community resource that connects our state and our region with the country and the world.

I continuously listen to Classical 89.7 and occasionally drop over to News 88.9. As a trumpet player, when I hear the music I used to play in band and college — it brings back so many memories. I wanted to contribute to Nevada Public Radio, and a sustaining membership was the easiest way to go — no muss, no fuss. Now I’m a part of something wonderful and uplifting. It feels good in my heart that I am making a difference.

I listen to KNPR for most of the day in my art studio. It keeps me up to date and entertained as I work. From my travels to other cities, I am aware that our public radio station here in Las Vegas is among the BEST! My husband and I have been supporters of the station since 1980, and we finally realized that it was much easier to become sustaining members, so we didn’t have to think about when it was time to renew. I can’t imagine not having KNPR in my life!

Every year the membership drive came along and I, like many people, kind of hid my head until the drive was over. I knew I should contribute because not only do I enjoy the programs and features on NPR, I’m a writer and get great story ideas from NPR. I finally decided enough was enough! I was enjoying benefits without doing my part — taking without giving — so I became a sustaining member.

Whenever I’ve been able to be a member of my local public radio station, wherever I’ve been, I have. Becoming a sustaining member in my now-adopted hometown is a natural extension of that tradition. Sustaining membership means I am helping to continue a tradition of thoughtful, thought-provoking news and entertainment. It doesn’t take a lot to be a sustaining member, yet it ultimately gives a lot back to our fellow Las Vegans — no matter where we’re originally from.

On May 28, 2015 The Historic Fifth Street School was host to the 3rd annual Focus on Nevada photo showcase. More than 300 guests gathered to honor this year’s winners, while they enjoyed the full 2015 “Focus on Nevada” showcase exhibit. Our top winners took home prizes from B & C Camera and Sony. La Comida provided lite bites, and Davalos Tequila kept us hydrated.

KNPR has been a daily ritual for my husband and me throughout our marriage, the ups and downs of life. KNPR lets us start our day on the right foot. We always find ourselves updating each other on stories we’ve heard. Now that we have a teenager, it’s evolved into lessons on broadening her horizons and bringing her into this dialog as well. We wanted to take the necessary steps to be responsible for that consistency we enjoy and do our part, so we became sustaining members.

My family gets great value out of KNPR. It’s the best source for regional news, especially at a time when we feel that the quality of news in other media is really suffering.

Wherever I live, one of the first things I do is locate the NPR station and set the tuner. It seldom changes after that. The second thing I do is become a member. NPR is my favorite source for all the different kinds of things that get reported on. This is my simple way to contribute to myself and my community. It's a way to join a community that not only benefits its members, but society as a whole.

When I moved to Las Vegas, one of the first things I did was find the NPR station and start listening. NPR is the most honest and reliable news source in this nation. I had never lived west of the Appalachians, so I had a lot to learn, and KNPR’s State of Nevada has been a great resource. Since the station is dependent on community support, I consider being a sustaining member a civic responsibility.

KNPR is my almost “always” station. It’s the only station I listen to in my car, and I feel up to date, in a positive way, with the news of today. Working in the real estate world, I want to know what is happening locally, nationally, and internationally, and I don’t want to be inundated with negative local “news.” I am grateful for Nevada Public Radio, because it keeps me well informed and provides me with great conversation starters!

I used to wait to contribute for a matching challenge during the membership drives. I kept hearing everyone on-air saying sustaining membership is better, so I decided to try it. If being a sustaining member helps shorten the drives-HALLELUJAH! Being a sustaining member means that I know that I have done all I can do to keep my favorite station available for myself and others.

Life moves quickly in Las Vegas, and things are always changing. But the one thing I know that won’t change is my support for Nevada Public Radio. That is why I am a sustaining member, because I know I plan to continue to support Nevada Public Radio, year after year, even if everything else changes in Las Vegas!

I raised my now 20-year-old on the music, and now I have a 2-year-old, so I want the same benefits to be available for him. As a member, I have guilt-free enjoyment of the programs. If you can afford a coffee each week, you can afford KNPR, and isn’t that coffee tastier with Nevada Public Radio as the background entertainment?

Matching Gift Program

Many employers sponsor matching gift programs and will match charitable contributions made by their employees. You can double — or even triple — the impact of your donation to Nevada Public Radio with a matching gift from your employer — providing more resources for the news and music you rely on. Special thanks to: Eli Lilly and Company Foundation, Microsoft Matching Gifts, Pinnacle Entertainment, The Benevity Community Impact Fund, Bank of America Foundation, IBM International Foundation, Pfizer Foundation, Varian Medical Systems, Apple Matching Gifts Program

Nevada Public Radio established an endowment in 2000. Some of those earnings are restricted to maintain the Donald W. Reynolds Broadcast Center and its technical infrastructure. We welcome your inquiry if you are interested in making a legacy gift or leadership level investment to protect the independent journalism that empowers people to more deeply participate in their communities.

ENDOWMENT FUND INVESTOR:
The Rogers Foundations
As a supplemental revenue source, Nevada Public Radio holds various fundraising events each year, including Bids, Bites & Beverages (our annual fundraising event), bi-annual online auctions, and ticketed events — all of which play a crucial role in our ability to fulfill our mission. Special thanks to the partners who hosted or helped make the following benefit events possible:

On February 5, 2015, Nevada Public Radio invited its major donors, Board of Directors, Community Advisory Board, corporate supporters and community dignitaries to our premiere annual event, Bids, Bites & Beverages. In addition to enjoying signature beverages and gourmet bites, guests participated in both silent and live auctions. The event raised over $50,000, and we welcomed more than 400 guests to the Donald W. Reynolds Broadcast Center.
